TECHNOLOGY INCUBATION CELL

This often refers to a program or facility available in Siddhartha Institute of Technology and Sciences Hyderabad that helps nurture and support the growth of startup businesses. It provides resources such as office space, mentoring, networking opportunities, and sometimes funding to help startups develop and succeed.

This term might also be used in the context of a technology incubation center or cell, which supports the development and innovation of new technologies. This can include research and development activities, prototype testing, and mentorship.
